ABSTRACT

This mini-dissertation highlights corporate governance initiatives in South Africa, focusing on the proposed governance reforms. An analysis of the major corporate governance reform is done including, statutory reforms, development of codes of conduct and practice and institutional reforms. The evolution of South Africa's corporate structure and forces driving corporate governance is examined. It is noted that corporation in South Africa cannot shield themselves from the global movement shaping the standard principle governing corporations. Therefore the global principle corporate governance are examined concerning how they can serve as models for enhancing corporate governance standard in South Africa. The analysis is based on the need to bring South Africa's corporate governance in line with international accepted standard but considering the best interest of South Africa and its citizen.

DEDICATION

I gratefully acknowledge the following people without their inputs this mini-dissertation would not have come to fruition. I am very grateful to Adv. Lufuno Tokyo Nevondwe, under whose supervision the research was conducted, for his support and guidance in directing the completion of this work. His willingness to discuss the issues regarding this research was very helpful.

To my precious daughter, Mampekeng Tebogo, whom I neglected so much whilst undertaking studies and carrying out this research. I promise to make it up to you. This work is dedicated to my mother Mrs Mabjala Sebola and my late father, Mr Mmanare Joseph Sebola who have provided me with immeasurable physical, moral and spiritual support, without which the possibility of completion of this work would have been far too remote.

ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

My supervisor, Adv. Lufuno Tokyo Nevondwe shall remain evergreen in my memory and overly blessed by God for his human love, sense of humanity, purposeful academic guidance, useful suggestions, patience, availability and enriching supervision. His constructive criticisms to my mini-dissertation opened my eyes and taught me on how to be a good researcher and writer. I further acknowledged his caring attributes and high intellectual capacity and expert advice that paved my breakthrough in the LLM studies.

My special thanks goes to University of Limpopo, School of law administration staff, in particular T.D Manamela, Mrs M Sethole, Professor JLH Letsoalo, my colleagues, not forgetting Oupa Phasha for his guidance on how to structure this research, Finally to my lovely and caring family for providing me with emotional support throughout my studies at the University of Limpopo.
